I sculpted this body to be a body compatible with smart doll heads, specifically meant to resemble a trans masculine person, because that's a representation I don't see a lot in the bjd hobby. This is the first body I've sculpted and so not all the joints are ideal, but they are all functional and I haven't had any major issues with any of them.

The body is strung as a standard bjd so most online tutorials should help with that if you don't know how to do it. The string channels are a little tight because I wanted to make the pieces as sturdy as possible. The hands and feet are held in place with 10mm magnets. I printed mine on a resin printer but fdm works fine as well.

If you have any questions, feel free to dm me on instagram @autumnchild_dolls and please @ me if you use my files, I'd love to see it. I'll probably post more option pieces in the future and the best way to get updates for that is following me over there. If anyone wants to modify my files, I do not mind. If you want to print and sell them, contact me first and we can work something out.

As far as I can tell, this body can wear pretty much the same as a dollfie dream boy body but the pants are a bit too long. Should also be able to share tops with smart doll/dollfie dream girls.

READ BEFORE PRINTING
All pieces must be scaled 200% in order to achieve the 1/3 scale that was intended for this body.
Supports will be necessary on most if not all pieces.
There are two different waist pieces, one of them has a hole in the back that makes the doll compatible with smart doll's stand system (telescopic stands will not work because the doll isn't as sturdy, but tripod stands work).
There are three different torso pieces, one with nipples, one with nipples and ftm top surgery scars, and one that is just smooth.

FAQ:
Q: Where is the head cap?
A: the head cap found under free stuff on the smart doll website should be compatible

Q: Can you make the stringing channels wider?

A: I won't, but somebody has, so feel free to use their modded pieces :)
