A few years ago, my girlfriend made me a YouLightUpMyLife valentine card, which she made herself. I liked the valentine card so much that I had it framed and it has been standing on my nightstand ever since. When I spotted a Valentine's Day contest on PrusaPrinters, the idea of making lithophane came to me in an instant, and it didn't take long for me to connect the lines since the valentine card was looking at me while thinking.

Now the beauty of the valentine card depends on the light which adds more meaning to its message.

It prints well with PLA and PETG.

I suggest the print height 0.15 mm - Quality
