My mom likes to have the names of her plants in the pots because she has A LOT of plants and varieties. She used to make new popsicle sticks with the names of her plants every 3 months or so because they would fade in the sun, get dirty, or get moldy. So I came up with this little stick that has the exact dimensions of a standard popsicle stick, and has room to place the names of all of your plants on them so you don't have to keep replacing. I included a blank one and one with a name on it to act as a guide. You can easily add your own names as engravings or embossings in a program such as TinkerCad.
