Summary

I wanted an easy and quick clothes hook and didn't want to run to the store for a 3M version.

You shouldn't have to rotate the print: make sure you print it on its side otherwise the overhang won't print properly. Printing in this orientation also increases the strength of the print because the seam lines run parallel to the direction your clothes will pull it in. I made mine with a 0.3 mm height, 5% infill, and PETG. I put some double sided mounting tape on the back and it holds heavier garments without issue.
