Using Meshmixer, I removed a small hole towards the bottom of the back of the original model and remeshed the back. I also tweaked the proportions a little to reduce the depth relative to its height and width.

Again, 100% of the credit for this design goes to MrSnoWie, this is just a minor touch up.

This is not a multi-material model, I used PrusaControl to add two color changes, from black to purple and purple to silver. If you wish a similar result, make sure to check the preview of your model in your slicer to determine your transition layers.
