It all started when I received the confirmation from IJCNN 2017 that my two papers were accepted, but one was designated for a poster session. Then I thought: what am I going to do without my laptop around? And that was the "eureka" moment :D

My idea was to create something small, that could reuse the straps from my messenger bag and, the most important, rubber bands!

After I printed it, I noticed it would be better to have at least one rubber band at the front too, but it took 3.5 hours to print... So, if you want to improve it, here are the CAD files (Fusion 360):
