Summary

Let me present you my take on Rocky's clock. For all the book (and upcoming movie) fans!

I had this clock in my mind immediately when it came up in the book. Loved the idea and needed to create it as per my vision. Full disclosure, this is a work-in-progress and for display only at the moment. I'm still working on the gear mechanism to get it working properly and it will definitely take some time. Let's hope it will be before the movie comes out but I'm highly interested in the approach the movie crew comes up with (hopefully it will not be only CG) - so I can create new version!

I designed it for printing without supports. You will need to print 4 MiddleCover parts and 5 Ring parts, the rest is one of each. The

The only post-processing needed is to glue the Inside cover to the EndCover. The rest is up to you. I went with sanding for rougher look and then painting with acrylic paint - mostly mix of silver, black and white.

Looking forward to see your takes on this one!
