'Defensive' Monk miniature for tabletop gaming.

I make no claim to it's creation, and found it at:

I scaled it to approximately 28mm 'heroic' size, and gave it a proper base. Looks great at my weekly D&D game.

Print instructions Category: Toys & Games Print Settings

Printer Brand: RepRap

Printer: Wilson

Rafts: Doesn't Matter

Supports: Yes

Resolution: .05 mm layer height and .25 mm nozzle

Infill: 50%

Notes:

Lay it on its back, with the (model's) right upper arm parallel to the build plate. With Cura, I used grid supports everywhere. Make sure the left arm is supported.

Lots of support material and rough surfaces on the back. I hurried it a bit, and the back could have been made much smoother. Special care must be made when removing support material around the braid in the back.
