The Rust Monster first appeared in (Original) Dungeons and Dragons Supplement I: Greyhawk in 1975. It was based on a small plastic toy that Gary Gygax found in a bag of small plastic monsters made in Hong Kong.

In the original box, the Rust Monster arrived as a 2-piece model that required assembly. I did not disassemble my original in order to scan it.

This model was a pain to generate. The original is poorly weighted, so it always leans back on its tail. This created a hole in the bottom of the tail when I scanned it, which I had to fill in. It also meant that I couldn't use the base of the scan to coincide with the build plate, so I had to do a lot of work on the bottom of the model as well. The result is a model that stands on its feet better than the original.

Printer Brand:

Monoprice

Printer:

Maker Ultimate

Rafts:

No

Supports:

Yes

Resolution:

0.1mm

Infill:

25%

Filament: anyone PLA white

Notes:

I printed mine at 145%, which is a bit larger than the original.
Try 140% to match the original.

Set Z = -1 mm

If you use supports, be careful when removing them. The bottom part of the tail of my model came off with the support material and I had to glue it back on.
