Summary

This little Red-Eyed Crocodile Skink is the closest to a real-life dragon you can get... seriously, Google them!

This little Red-Eyed Crocodile Skink is the closest to a real-life dragon you can get... seriously, Google them!

If you want one for yourself, here's your chance! It's fully articulated and likes to relax on things with it's very chill expression... I've tried to encompass that "lizard" vibe so let me know if you think any improvements can be made!

The pictured print was with 0.4mm nozzle and 1.75mm PLA, with 40% infill. This model is strong and I've had no problems with the connections so far, but please let me know how you get on! Feedback always appreciated :)

Also, please share your prints! They make my day, and I love to see the amazing colours you all use...
