Tags: gardening basket

I needed a large basket to carry out to the garden for harvesting, so I designed this reusable harvest basket. It has plenty of ventilation and room for strawberries, peppers, eggplants, green beans, and whatever else is ready to pick.

The openings are smaller near the bottom to keep smaller produce from falling through and gradually get larger toward the top to reduce filament use and printing time.

This is the large version—I also have a much smaller version available that prints faster if you don’t need as much capacity.
