I love the mantis clamp as a fidget and brain teaser, and I thought it would be a great option to give away for trick-or-treat this year, but it needed something to make it a little more festive. So I changed the knob to a pumpkin! Is it practical to have a pumpkin stem sticking out of the knob? No! It's festive!

Then I let my kid play with it, and noticed he was clamping it on to stuff like the stroller handle. Eureka! If I add a keyring, this might just be useful as a handy way to hang keys or other small objects in places they otherwise wouldn't stay!

A little bit of kit-bashing in the slicer later, and here we go, a fun (and hopefully handy) trinket to print for the kids in my neighborhood!
