A simple two-piece banana hanger designed to keep your bananas fresh and off the counter. The base is a sturdy circular ring, and the arm slots into it with a small notch at the top to cradle the banana bunch stem. No hardware needed but a bit of glue will make it even sturdier.

This is a pretty straightforward print, nothing fancy, but it does the job well. Both parts are designed to be printed flat and assemble easily by hand. The open base design keeps it lightweight while still providing good stability.

Printed in PLA. Feel free to scale it up or down depending on how many bananas you typically buy. Have fun with colours and share your prints!
