So this is my build of the really well done boba fett gun created by Burgs. I didn't like the stock, so I made one a little fancier. I decided to add an internal spring for the trigger and designed a plastic piece that goes inside the handle to serve as a mount for the spring, as well as a mount for the grip covers (handle grub). I had trouble with the stock being crooked, which others may not have trouble with, so I created a modified stock link to adjust the angle of the stock. I also created a stand for it. Please note that you will have to download the original rifle. These files are only the stand and the parts I modified.
