In Oathsworn, I wanted something that would allow me to manage the cards of multiple characters when playing solo, whilst reducing the space required. It also allows me to easily see where my cards are, and help plan how I'm going to get them back.

Print one of these for each full character in play. I painted the numbers & arrows, but you could swap filament easily enough.

There are enough rows for each ability card, and an extra strength 3 for any items (although you could share another row easily enough).

Also space for tokens and coins.
