Do I really need to explain this? Ok probably yeah.

What better way to remind you of how valuable toilet paper is right now than by thinking of it as a roll of portra. Shoot at half frame and you'll get 72 exposures out of a roll.

"The great thing about film toilet rolls is that it really slows you down, man.. makes you think - do I really need to expose this frame?"

I've made two versions. One to the precise scale of a 35mm cassette which will inconveniently only fit a half roll. The other version is the fat boy portra version that will fit a full roll of TP and fit in regular holders.

Labels are just printed and glued on. Or you can print onto stickers, whatever you have or want to do.

The half roll label size is 95.3 x 221.3mm

The full roll label size is 95.3 x 380mm

Jpegs for the Portra Label and a couple others Can be found here:

Print instructions

They require support material just on the base but it comes off fine with pliers. Everything else is up to you, it's a pretty basic/easy print.
