A friend gave me a small carved hug many years ago, which I recently found again and it brought me and the friend joy to rediscover it.

I then decided to go ahead and make 3D printed hugs, so I can give or send it to other friends to cheer us all up, because hey, we can all use a hug this year...

I also ended up using these as my maker coin or filament swatch, since they are tiny (less than 20mm high - 2 pound coin for reference) and quick to print.

I print these on their back, but they can print standing up as well, with a bit of support
