Don't you hate it that you had to drill few holes on your precious overly simplified lack table? I would too especially with that nice paint job.

Or do you want something like a pegboard attached on your lack table for better functionality?

This incorporates the skadis pegboard attached onto the lack table's leg like a sock then you can just add multi-tiered storage right under the lack table, according to your desired flavor.

You also can hang something else such as filament, or use these as an anchor point for enclosure for whatever things you want in there.

Warning

These models has no tolerance compensation added. Please adjust "XY compensation/offset" in your slicer settings to achieve a good desired fitting
