I had an old print of a similar doorstop. When mine went missing, I searched the internet for the original design file. Not finding it, I recreated the doorstop from memory. Turns out the original was still hidden deep on Thingiverse. Since I made this design from scratch and memory I am calling it "Resurrected" instead of remixed.

I added some gaffer tape to the back since the floor is smooth. This holds my classroom door open and adds some humor to middle school classes.
