The Former is an entity in the game Control that at one point “inhabits” an indestructible fridge. For more background, you’ll need to play the game.

I designed the fridge in a vague fashion, without any reference to actual measurements in-game or similar models in the real world. I also cut it into pieces to facilitate easier and almost support-less printing on my smaller printer.

Use an unwrapped paperclip to make the hinge work. Print using organic supports if you can,

I am going to add LEDs, a door magnet switch, and maybe some interesting paint job, but I will say that it is by no means necessary to add any electronics to make this work.

I don’t know why you would want the Former in your home, but then again, I am not one to judge.

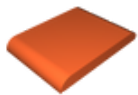

If you have questions feel free to ask. I do consider this more of a labor of (eldritch) love than something many people will need.
