Summary

Stand to keep laptop vertical while open so that the monitor is closer to eye level.

Remix of the Vertical Laptop Stand by jellyfinger on Thingiverse to change the dimensions for my specific use. The space between the vertical supports have been decreased so that it only supports the bottom half of the laptop, to allow for it to stand up vertically so that the monitor is about eye level. The keyboard is not usable in this configuration, but I use a traditional keyboard and mouse at my desk anyways. This allows me to use the laptop screen as a functional 3rd screen.

Printed initial prototype without supports and it bridged mostly OK with a little sagging. This one is printed with supports to get a super clean finish.
