Summary

Sometimes I don't like obnoxious RGB everything

After purchased some HP Victus gaming desktops from Costco (a cheap/ quick way to get computers with good GPUs during supply chain problems) we decided that all the glowing V things looked stupid in the data-center, especially since all the computers were rack mounted on their side.

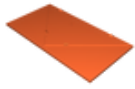

Step 1) remove the silly RGB triangle

Step 2) print this cover in whatever color you like

Step 3) snap-in this cover in place

This cover also provides a way to put labels or stickers identifying the machine, which can easily be replaced/swapped by removing the cover
