Ikea sells a "SAMLA" line of clear storage boxes that are great, and really cheap, but don't have any sort of latching or catching mechanism to keep the lid on--it just sort of sits there.

You can print out either two or four of these and glue them to the lid to add some clipping ability. I also included a version that doesn't extend to the top of the lid--if keeping the top flat is important to you, you might try those, though they don't have quite as much surface area for the glue to hold.
