Im obsessed with wall mounting everything. After I tripped over a few of my sons hockey balls I knew I needed another wall mount.

Each extension interlocks with the one above it pretty tightly with their screw holes overlapping so they lock together on the wall. You can then print the top cap if you don't want the look of the extension tab.

I recommend starting on the low part of the wall and adding extensions above each one for as many balls that you have.

Print Settings

- PLA
- Print upright as if it was wall mounted
- No supports needed
