This simple little piston head is from a project that I'm currently working on, and I thought that it looked pretty cool by itself, so I decided to upload it!

The piston is 5cm in diameter, and features a conrod hole which could possibly be used for a keychain, but it would probably require the keyring itself to be of a large diameter if you aren't using a chain.

It could also be scaled up and used for room decor like on your desk or maybe a little shelf. This model wasn't made with the intent of it being used as decor or an accessory for a keychain, so it probably won't work perfectly for everything.
