Halloween is just around the corner, so it's time to wake the dead again. This skeleton head not only has glowing eyes, but also sprays fine water mist out of his eyes. This effect looks very cool, but is unfortunately poorly captured on the videos.

The printing is also very easy, the skull is designed and aligned in such a way that it only requires a minimum amount of support structure. The eyes should be printed with transparent material.

All you need for the electronics are 2 LEDs with resistors and a mini fogger. You don't have to screw anything. In the picture, you can see everything, but I will add more features and instructions very soon.
