I saw this didn't exist here so brought it over from thingiverse. Besides a little too much force creating a small layerline crack installing the first controller they came out great.

The description from original:

I remixed the original design to avoid the clamps at the top. To secure the Oculus Quest 2 controllers in the grips, I opted for a screwable cover at the bottem that wedges in the grip cords. Prints need support and you will need 2 M3 screws per grip between 10-14 mm long.
