Summary

Mancala is one of the oldest games of the world. This is my version of the two player game.

Mancala is a type of game where two players take turns using small stones, beans, or seeds placed in holes or pits on a board. The goal is usually to capture all or some of the other player's pieces.

People have been playing versions of this game for a really long time, even going back to ancient times like Ancient Egypt, over 2000 years ago. It's one of the oldest games that people still play today.

Here is a great tutorial I found on YouTube:

Printing instructions:

Turn the mancala board by 45° and eventually scale it down to fit the print bed.

You can play it with dried baens, pebbles or whatever you like or you can print the added gems, pebbles, hearts or beans (at least 48 in total).
