This is probably the weirdest thing I've ever felt compelled to make, but I just had to do it for the meme gold. It's a bog mummy, driving a dirt bike, that has a blood-soaked summoning cauldron as a sidecar. The cauldron is designed to hold a 28mm miniature, so most standard bog mummies (and such) can ride in the sidecar. Bog mummy, take the wheel!

I'm so enamored with the peat bog mummies of the latest iteration of DutchMogul's Pocket Tactics that I had to make my own to expand my own army. It seemed only fitting that I then offer all of my new bog mummies here on Thingiverse for all to enjoy as a thank you to the community (and to DutchMogul)!

If you like these bog mummies, you should definitely pick up a copy of Pocket Tactics or get on Ill Gotten Games' Patreon and consider visiting my store of miniatures I've created over at Punkin' Figs

This miniature prints without supports and prints even on an old FDM printer (like my Ender 3). If you print them on black filament, they're super easy to paint. All are 30mm Scale, but can probably be scaled down to standard 15mm Pocket Tactics scale using your slicing program of choice. No custom rules for these guys yet, so feel free to write your own!
