Evolution: Another World (special addition) Storage that is just now shipping from a KS effort...have yet to actually play it with my group...just picked it up today.

I never really care for the liners that come with games....especially when you need to pull everything out.

I made this box, and it uses magnets, to hold all the small components...and leave space for the cards an instructions in the box. 4 each of: 3x3, 3x2, 3x5. Which you can find on Amazon. The small ones will require a spot of glue and a press fit with some needlenose pliers, the large ones are a little loose, and superglue will be needed to hold them in place.

The thing I like most, is that the energy tokens have a magnetic flap that holds fine when stored, but a push ...where it says push here, it flips open so you can dump the tokens out.

I included the box file if you wish to edit on Fusion360.

Additionally, I created some dividers and printed some card storage holders. The ones I like are from 10ETrinkets. You can purchase the models here:

you can also purchase off etsy, but...you need them resized.

The cards will fit, if you increase the double deck dimensions by 23% (width), 33% (length), 10% (height) (cards are 81x121). You will need two of these. Dividers provide a thin divider identifying each card group.
