Update 12-06-2025:

Added V2 of the controller holder. Removed tiny overhangs from the front pattern, that pushed through the bottom surface. Bottom surface should lay completely flat now!

We bought our Nintendo Switch in the special edition Zelda - Tears of the Kingdom desgin and added the pro controller as well, because the design is really georgeous, and also fits our living room pretty well.

I stumbled over @4D's design and immediately had a gift for my SO in mind.

So I added an engraved winged triforce symbol to it and also the engraved background pattern of Zelda TotK which you can find all over the game, the Switch itself, the Switch stand and pro controller.

Printed in PLA at 0.2 layer height the intricate pattern finished pretty good. I assume, that printing in 0.15 might look even better. For the finishing touch I painted the triforce in a matching golden hue. I used the lightning infill, so I was able to drill a hole in the bottom and fill it up with a few hands ful of quartz sand, for a slightly weightier feel.

Have fun!
