Vintage Sirram camping kettle replacement spout cap

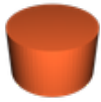

These things go missing - so this is a replacement cap.

The cap has the proper threads inside - so it screws on firmly.

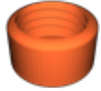

It isn't fancy, but it works. If you want it to be water tight, it may be worth putting a rubber washer inside (I believe the original aluminium one did).

Two versions - one square edges, one bevelled. I think the bevelled one looks a bit more polished. No supports needed.
