Summary

It had to be done lol, I stylised FunkoPOP version of the Treadwell Droid.

Based off my own project, I decided to create this FunkoPOP styled version. Over sized head, detailed utility arms , baby antenna, simplified, yet undeniably Treadwell's WED-15 droid.

Version 3C is the latest update, mostly working on the utility arms so that they wouldn't break off when removing the support material.

I have been using 'tree' supports to print and have been really pleased with them.

I have also printed in both orientations, the right way up and head flat to bed (this took longer to print, and due to the angle the front slop of the base didn't get supported, so a slightly uneven surface was produced. Nothing a bit of filler couldn't fix).

I would recommend the right way up and with tree supports.
