Summary

Keep these tokens in your glovebox, they don't get accidentally spent like quarters!

I can't for the life of me keep a quarter in my car for the shopping cart when grocery shopping. It goes into the car, it goes into my pocket, and it ends up in a change jar or paying for a load of laundry.

This is my solution. It's not the first design of it's kind but I was looking for one that doesn't go on a keychain and the little case I made is pretty dam cute.

As you can see from the color scheme I did have a particular grocery store in mind when I designed this of which I have no official affiliation of any kind. Included is a token case with and without said branding.

Printing

Prints with no supports and believe it or not, in any color. Cute branded colors are 100% optional.

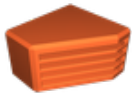

FAQ

What happens when people try to trade you a quarter for your cart and you're using one of these?
It's awkward.

What happens when the attendant gives you a different cart at check-out?
Profft.

Is this any cheaper than using a quarter?
Maybe. Technically. Perhaps.
